How to Use This Planner

Choose the suggested idea, adapt the hook, add your own example or proof, finish with the call to action, choose your platform, and schedule or publish.

The goal isn't perfect content. The goal is useful, relevant, consistent content that gives people a reason to remember, trust, and eventually buy from you.

BONUS #2 — Weekly Review

Which post performed best?

Why do I think it performed well?

Which post generated the most engagement?

Which post generated clicks, leads, or sales?

What question did my audience ask most often?

What should I create more of next week?

What should I stop doing?

What is one experiment I will try next week?

BONUS #3 — One Idea → Five Posts

Turn one strong idea into multiple pieces of content.

1. Educational post — teach the idea.
2. Short video — explain it in 30–60 seconds.
3. Carousel — break it into several steps.
4. Question post — ask your audience what they think.
5. Promotional post — connect the problem back to your product or service.

BONUS #4 — Simple Launch Checklist

- Write one clear promise for the product.
- Make the product page explain who it is for.
- Show exactly what the buyer receives.
- Make the price and payment terms obvious.
- Test checkout before promoting it.
- Test the download after checkout.
- Create three educational posts about the problem.
- Create one comparison or myth-vs-fact post.
- Create one product walkthrough.
- Create one proof/testimonial post when available.
- Create one direct offer post.
- Add the product link to your social profiles.
- Track clicks, purchases, and customer questions.
- Improve the offer based on real feedback.

FINAL REMINDER

You don't need to publish perfect content. Publish useful, relevant, consistent content for the people you want to reach. Plan it. Create it. Publish it. Learn from it. Repeat.
